The market slowed it's roll this week across most species and items. Talk of the Coronavirus and it's impact on the broader economy and the stock market seemed a major distraction. A two-tiered market has some secondaries questioning their positions, and whether or not this is a pause in the current run or the top of it. Import products slated for arrival later in the spring may have an impact, especially in panel/flooring markets. Now pardon me while I go wash my hands again.
