Markets started off Monday with a flurry of last-minute purchasing and panic buying prior to Trump announcing a 30 day pause on tariffs with Canada and Mexico. As traders woke up Tuesday, they quickly realized markets had gone quiet and the chaos had dissipated. But it didn't stop mills from bumping levels all week and staying firm to their newly found trading levels. Studs reported 30-50/M increases in all species with SPF leading the charge. Come Thursday, multiple wholesalers were reporting most the sales activity from the pro dealers and retailers. Overall, the lumber market has been a bit like a Super Bowl this year—full of unexpected twists and high stakes! Get your 7-layer dip ready for Super Bowl Sunday as the Eagles take on the Chiefs!
