Another quiet week as we are now T-minus one week until “Liberation Day,” aka Tariff Tuesday. Confusion over which products and countries will be affected by what percentage has continued to cause uncertainty in the market. Recent reports circulating indicate varying degrees of tariffs, some escalating over time. Most buyers are engaging in strictly hand-to-mouth purchasing as needs arise and spot discounts appear at domestic mills. KDDF and SPF continue to carry a premium over GRN and Pine, as the predominant species brought in from Canada. OSB sales remain muted in every region, with discounts popping up on Southern board. If lumber traders filled out their brackets for 2025, there’d be about as many perfect ones left as there are for March Madness. Speaking of... can Coach Cal run it back at Arkansas as the 10 seed?
